WebLiteracy for 21st Century Learners and Leaders A presentation by Alan November

About Alan November

Alan is a whirlwind of big ideas and provocative questions. He thrives on confirming and challenging thoughts about what's possible in the world of teaching and learning. More than anything, he is a teacher at heart, with a wealth of experience teaching learners of all ages.

Alan November's presentations are thought-provoking, creative and motivating. He has an uncanny ability to tap into the needs and energy of his audiences. Alan makes people think, question and laugh. His background as a dorm counselor for at-risk students, classroom teacher, technology coordinator, alternative school director, city planner, new school designer, university lecturer and years of consulting around the world give him a breadth of understanding and educational experience.

In a world of information overload, it is vital for students to not only find information but also determine its validity and appropriateness. These vital skills are needed as they prepare to be productive global citizens.

- Teach students how to separate fact from fiction on the Internet.
- Learn step-by-step teaching tips that help students and teachers think critically about Internet information.
- Explore Web 2.0 tools to build and strengthen learning communities by taking advantage of the communication tools the Internet provides, such as Twitter, Skype, blogs, Instant Messenger, video conference and email.
- Improve student motivation through authentic assessment that builds relationships over the web, connecting them to the global community.
